Natural Beauty & Historical Charm

1 Kahikatea Street, Inglewood, New Plymouth District

Price: SOLD

For those who appreciate the beauty of history, this home is a treasure trove of original features. The high studs and sash windows speak to the timeless elegance of its era. The loft conversion is a modern touch that seamlessly blends with the traditional charm.

With five bedrooms spread over two levels and an array of additional rooms, this home caters to the needs of even the largest families. Whether you need space for a home office, a playroom for the kids, or a cosy reading nook, a space can be adapted to suit any family's needs.

Keeping warm during the colder months is never a concern here. Three wood fires provide a rustic and cosy heating solution. In addition, there are 10 radiators downstairs, ensuring a comfortable temperature throughout the home.

This idyllic rural setting (7.73 acres) is perfectly nestled at the heart of Inglewood, within walking distance to the town, local schools and a short 15-minute drive to New Plymouth. This property is not just a haven for humans; it's also a paradise for animals. The current owners have lovingly cared for horses, cattle, sheep, and chickens. With ten small paddocks and numerous outbuildings and sheds for shelter, it's an ideal place for those who value the rural lifestyle with the convenience of being close to urban amenities.

The paddocks produce approximately 250 conventional hay bales, a testament to the productivity of the property. It's an opportunity for self-sufficiency and a connection to the land that's hard to find elsewhere.

This much-loved family home is a testament to the perfect blend of natural beauty, historical charm, and modern convenience.

If you're seeking a place where you can truly connect with nature, enjoy the comforts of home, and have the space to nurture your passions, this property offers it all. It's more than just a house; it's where memories are made and dreams come true.
